Background

Since Tripura is situated in seismic zone V, it is essential that we get ourselves prepared to manage earthquake & any other disasters. For efficient management of disasters we need trained & skilled volunteers. As such training of volunteers is an important item in the Disaster Management. Indian Red Cross Society, NHQs has identified a minimum set of skills which its volunteers must possess in order to be first responder to a variety of emergencies. This has led to development of the concept of First Medical Responders (FMR). The Indian Red Cross Society, with the support of State Red Cross Branches and its International partners, aims at developing a cadre of Certified First Medical Responders at district level through a series of training programmes and enhancing the capacity of communities to respond to emergency situation. In view of developing this set of skills Indian Red Cross Society, Tripura State Branch is conducting Mock Drills on management of emergency situations such as Earthquake, Fire hazard, etc in schools and at community level under DM programme 2016.

Objectives/Purpose:

1. To briefly discuss about the good part and the flaws of activities carried under DM programme-2015. 2. To briefly explain and discuss about the next plan of action to be carried on during the implementation of DM programme-2016 3. To clear out the misunderstandings in the process of the working of the state, district and sub divisional branches, if any, 4. To clear out the doubts regarding preparation of bills and vouchers necessary for preparation of expenditure statement. 5. To briefly explain the process of reporting of the various programmes held in different parts of the state under Red Cross to the State Headquarter.
